

DOWNTOWN BOULDER WIRELESS INTERNET

Acceptable Use Policy

As a user of this free BID service, you should have an understanding of the Internet and must abide by some simple rules and regulations.

No one owns the 'Internet' and there is no one contact point for it. The BID cannot control the information that you might receive while using this free service and we do not monitor the data that is transmitted to you.

Because we do not own or control the Internet, the BID cannot and does not accept any responsibility for injury to you that results from inaccurate, unsuitable or offensive Internet communications. It is up to you to control your use of this service and to make appropriate use of monitoring software that is available from many third party vendors that can provide filtering and parental control for offensive material.

The BID will not permit you to use this service for any of the following purposes:

Spam: Unsolicited, commercial mass e-mailing to others

Copyright Violations: Violation of copyrights held by individuals and corporations or other entities can result in civil and criminal liability. If you use this service to distribute information, you should be aware of and abide by the laws involving copyrights

Obscene Material: The BID will not allow the use of our network for the distribution of obscene or indecent material. The BID reserves the right to make the judgment in our sole discretion as to what constitutes obscene or indecent material

Illegal Activity: Any activity that is of an illegal or unlawful nature under the laws of the United States of America or State of Colorado.

Other: Any other activity that the BID determines, in our sole discretion, is unethical, or damaging to our other customers, users of the Internet in general, or to our reputation

The BID regularly monitors our network and its use. If we become aware of any violations of the above conditions, we may ban you from use of our network immediately and without notice.

By connecting wirelessly to the BID network and using our services, you are presumed to have accepted this Acceptable Use Policy.
